Certificate Program in Advanced Neurorehabilitation Technology - Hands-On Practical Session

Date: Workshop day, Monday May 12th

Time: 13.45-17.30

Limit: 60

Location: Exhibition Space

Workshop Abstract: Are you eager to enhance your expertise in rehabilitation technology? Join us for an exclusive pilot workshop, part of a groundbreaking new certificate program designed to advance your knowledge and practical skills in this rapidly evolving field.

This program is a collaborative initiative led by ACRM, IFESS, IISART, ISVR, MiNT, and Motus Academy. It consists of two integrated parts:

Online Learning (MOOC): Begin by exploring the fundamentals of rehabilitation technology application through a flexible, self-paced massive open online course (MOOC). Upon successful completion, you will earn a certificate from EdX, equipping you with essential theoretical knowledge.

Hands-On Practical Session: Take your learning to the next level with a hands-on training session, held in the exhibition area and at the booths of leading technology manufacturers during RehabWeek or the ACRM Conference. These practical sessions allow you to interact directly with cutting-edge devices and gain real-world application experience. Upon successful completion of the MOOC and hands-on practical sessions, you will receive a certificate from ACRM.

Special Opportunity for RehabWeek Participants:

For this pilot edition, three sections of the MOOC will be available for early access. You can complete them either before or after attending the hands-on session at RehabWeek. Currently, access to these sections is free of charge. In return, we kindly ask you to provide feedback to help us refine and enhance the program.

Looking Ahead:

The complete MOOC will be available later this year in preparation for the ACRM Conference October 27-30, where we will also host the first comprehensive hands-on workshop.

Why Join?

- Boost your clinical and technical proficiency in rehabilitation technology.
- Gain certificates from EdX and ACRM to strengthen your professional profile.
